

HAPPY THANKSGIVING: 11th Circuit Grants Lin Wood's Emergency Motion for Expedited Review of Lawsuit Challenging Validity of GA Election Procedure

By Joe Hoft

Published November 25, 2020 at 7:34pm

201 Comments

Last night we reported that Lin Wood's case in Georgia was far from over:

GOOD NEWS: Lin Wood Case in Georgia Is Still Very Much Alive - Case Appealed to 11th Circuit - Still Moving Forward

This morning we reported that Wood filed an emergency motion for an expedited review of his appeal:

BREAKING: Attorney Lin Wood Files Emergency Motion for Expedited Review of His Appeal in US Court of Appeals for 11th Circuit

Tonight we received good news from Georgia – a Happy Thanksgiving gift:

Thanksgiving Eve News!

11th Circuit granted my Emergency Motion for Expedited Review of lawsuit challenging validity of GA election procedure.

We The People delivered a historic landslide win for @realDonaldTrump in GA & nationally.

We The People will not allow it be stolen. pic.twitter.com/YVFmaZzuYj

– Lin Wood (@LLinWood) November 26, 2020

Mark Meadows also celebrated the news:

MORE BIG NEWS out of Georgia: the 11th Cir. just granted an emergency motion for expedited review on a lawsuit challenging Georgia's election certification. We'll know more next week starting December 1st. Stay tuned.

– Mark Meadows (@MarkMeadows) November 26, 2020